BLOCK WATCH NEWSLETTER
MARCH 2014

The unusual amounts of snow and flooding along with the approaching severe weather season should prompt an evaluation of your emergency plans and supplies. Every house and apartment should have (at least) the following types of emergency supplies: flashlight(s) with batteries, portable radio with batteries, extra batteries for flashlight and radio, candles with holder, matches, first aid kit, fire extinguisher(s), smoke detector(s), carbon monoxide detector(s), drinking water, canned foods, and can opener (non-electric). There should be a home emergency plan in effect for fires, storms, earthquakes and medical emergencies.

All telephones and cellphones should be equipped with an emergency telephone sticker that lists the Police, Fire, and EMS. The phone stickers (for the Jeffersontown residents) can be obtained from the Jeffersontown Police Department, 10410 Taylorsville Road. Each sticker should have your address listed on it. DO NOT depend on your memory during a crisis, you can forget who you are and where you live.

There should be house numbers posted on your house. These numbers should be at least three inches by two inches in standard Arabic form (10410) not script (ten thousand four hundred ten). The larger the number the better and contrasting in color to the area of the house painted. During the past snow emergency, numbers painted on curbs were useless. In a lot of cases, snow covered numbers on mailboxes. Snow plows covered mailboxes and in some cases, mailboxes were knocked down. "PLEASE" post your number "ON" the house.
